in an experimental program to support process scale-up, an on-line dls system was used to monitor a 1l batch of an oil-in-water emulsion produced using a bench top high-shear mixer working for shell in it, i started in medical engineering (see hall mj 1969, the control of powered